

About

Arton Capital's Passport Index is the world's most popular online interactive tool, which collects, displays and ranks the passports of the world.

It is the only live global ranking of passports, updated as frequently as new visa waivers and changes are announced.

Visitors can dive in the fascinating world of passports, explore their designs, sort them by country, region and even by color. For the first time ever, visitors can compare passports side by side.

The Passport Index also features PASSE/PORT, the comprehensive blog curating passport-related news, and views on global mobility, security, technology, branding, and visa policies from around the world.

Purpose

Inform

Showcase, educate and inform the public on the power passports transcend on the holder's identity, opportunity, mobility and overall quality of life. United by our diversity, the passport is one of the most important documents we possess.

Engage

Encourage discussions on visa policies, citizenship, country branding, global mobility, public security, philanthropy and foreign policy.

Inspire

In today's world, becoming a Global Citizen is more important than ever. Having a second citizenship is a liberating and empowering privilege which comes with a responsibility to the world.

Methodology

The Passport Index methodology is based on the following:

- Passports of 193 United Nations member countries and 6 territories (ROC Taiwan, Macao (SAR China), Hong Kong (SAR China), Kosovo, Palestinian Territory and the Vatican) for a total of 199 are considered.
- Territories annexed to other countries such as Norfolk Island (Australia), French Polynesia (France), British Virgin Islands (Britain), etc. who do not issue their own passports are excluded and not considered as destinations.
- Countries which issue passports, regardless if they enforce independent visa policies or not are considered as destinations.
- Data is based on proprietary research from publicly available sources and on official information provided by government agencies.
- Significant number of passport images are provided by proud citizens of their countries. While some chose to remain anonymous, most have been credited for their contribution.
- To determine the individual rank of each passport, a three-tier method is applied:
  1. Visa-Free Score (VFS) – includes visa-free (VF) and visa on arrival (VOA)
  2. VF portion of their score vs VOA
  3. United Nations Development Programme Human Development Index (UNDP HDI) is used as a tie breaker. The UNDP HDI is a significant measure on the country's perception abroad.

How to use the Passport Index

EXPLORE:

By Country

About Methodology How to Terminology Contribute Media Enquiries

Explore the interactive mosaic, find your country's passport, or simply discover others.

By Region

Display passports for specific continents, regions, or other geopolitical filters.

By Location

The world map represented by the color of the country's passport cover.

By Color

Sort passports by the color of their cover.

COMPARE:

By Passport

Compare the world's passports next to each other, learn about their visa policies and discover your Global Mobility Score.

By Destination

Compare how welcoming different countries are.

RANK:

Global Passport Power Rank

Passports of the world are sorted by their total Visa-Free Score, which includes visa-free and visa on arrival privileges. The higher the VFS score, the better global mobility its passport bearer enjoys.

Individual Passport Power Rank

No two passports are alike, hence why share a rank? The 2016 edition of the Passport Index introduces a unique ranking system, where each passport occupies an individual rank, based on their individual country and visa characteristics.

Filtered Rank

It has never been easier to rank passports based on their individual characteristics within a context of your interest. You can now filter by continent, region, industry and many more.

Global Country Welcoming Rank

Some passports command respect and visa-free access to many parts of the world. But how welcoming are they? Passport Index' Country Welcoming Rank showcases the most and least welcoming countries in the world, ranked solely on the the number of countries they accept visa-free or with visa on arrival.

Global Passport Power Rank Examples

- Both Germany and Sweden rank as the most powerful passports in the world as they both have a Visa-Free Score of 156.
- Afghanistan is ranked last with a Visa-Free Score of 25.
- Barbados ranks as the most powerful Caribbean passport (ranked 20th), followed by Bahamas (21st) and Antigua & Barbuda (25th).

Individual Passport Power Rank Examples

- Both Spain and the United Kingdom have a Visa-Free score of 156. However, Spain, ranked 7th, has a visa-free portion of 115, while the United Kingdom has only 113, which puts it in 8th place.
- Both Italy and Finland have a Visa-Free Score of 156, and identical visa-free portions of 117. However, Finland is ranked higher in the UN's Human Development Index than Italy, therefore it occupies the 3rd rank in the Individual Passport Power Rank.

Welcoming Countries Rank Examples

- The African continent has some of the most welcoming countries.
- Dominica is the most welcoming Caribbean country and ranked 2nd in the world).
- Iran is the most welcoming country in the MENA region (ranked 8th in the world), followed by Turkey (14th), Jordan (22nd) and Lebanon (40th).
- UK ranks as the 3rd most welcoming country in the world.
- While Germany has the most powerful passport in the world as of 2016, it only allows 84 countries to enter without a visa (or with visa on arrival), placing it 53rd on the Welcoming Countries Rank.

Terminology

Visa-Free Score (VFS)

Passports accumulate points for each country that their holders can visit without a visa, or they can obtain a visa on arrival.

Visa-Free (VF)

Permission from a foreign authority to enter a country is not required.

Visa on arrival (VOA)

Permission from a foreign authority to enter a country is required but can be obtained on arrival.

Visa required (VR)

Permission from a foreign authority to enter a country is required prior to travel.

Electronic Travel Authorization (eTA)

Requirement for foreign nationals travelling to a country where permission to enter is not required. It is a relatively new approach, widely used by the USA and Canada.

Passport Power Rank (PPR)

Passports are ranked based on their Visa-Free Score. The higher the Visa-Free Score, the better the Passport Power Rank.

Welcoming Countries Score (WCS)

Countries are ranked by the number of passports they accept visa-free or with visa on arrival.

Global Mobility Score (GMS)

A measure for people's current or potential number of countries they can visit visa-free with up to 4 passports.

UNDP Human Development Index (UNDP HDI)

The United Nations Development Programme's Human

Development Index is a summary measure of average achievement in key dimensions of human development: a long and healthy life, being knowledgeable and have a decent standard of living. These measures are an important indication to a country's perception abroad.
